About me

Hello, I'm Alexander Brasgaard!

As a frontend developer and webdesigner, I have focused on structured and readable code with beautiful solutions. I collaborate with passionate individuals and companies alike to produce user-friendly web solutions, resulting in satisfied consumers.

When not working with code, I love spending time with people that matter to me. A substantial part of who I am is exploring and trying new things. If there is an opportunity to go into unknown territory, count me in.
